When looking for a new job, salary is important, but work perks can make a huge difference. Today, many modern companies offer exciting benefits to attract talented people and keep their employees happy and motivated.

One of the most popular perks is flexible working hours. Instead of working a strict nine-to-five schedule, employees can choose when they start and finish their day. This makes it much easier to balance professional tasks with personal life. Additionally, many offices now provide free food and drinks. Employees can enjoy healthy snacks, fresh fruit, and high-quality coffee throughout the day without spending their own money.

Some companies also focus on health and wellness by offering free gym memberships or paying for yoga classes. Others even have a pet-friendly policy, which means workers can bring their dogs to the office. These perks do not just make the workplace more fun; they also reduce stress and help colleagues build stronger relationships. Ultimately, when a company invests in these benefits, employees feel valued and work much better.

1. Salary is the only thing people care about when they look for a new job. FALSE Correct
2. Flexible working hours allow employees to choose their own start and finish times. TRUE Correct
