IV. Read and answer

Before Miss Nili first came to our house on the poya-holiday of April 1969, Mister Salgado only said to me, 'A lady is coming to tea.' As if a lady came to tea every week. It had never happened before in his life, or mine, and yet he acted as if it were the most important thing in the world. Luckily he gave me some warning. He was concerned to make sure there was plenty of time to prepare, even though he acted so nonchalant. I made everything: little coconut cakes, patties, egg sandwiches, ham sandwiches, cucumber sandwiches, even love-cake ... I made enough for a horse. It was just as well: she ate like a horse. I don't know where she put it: she was so skinny then. So hungry-looking. I expected her to bulge out as she ate, like a pig or a bird. But she just sat there on the cane chair, one leg coiled under her, her back straight and her face floating happily in the warm afternoon haze while huge chunks of the richest, juiciest love-cake disappeared into her as into a cavern.

'You like cake?' he asked her stupidly.

She made a lowing sound between bites. It made him happy, and although I didn't approve of her being quite so uninhibited so soon in our house, I was touched too.

'Where did you get this, this cake?' Her lips glistened with my butter, and one corner of her mouth had a line of golden semolina crumbs which smudged into a dimple as she spoke.

'Triton made it,' my Mister Salgado said. Triton made it. It was the one phrase he would say with my name again and again like a refrain through those months, giving me such happiness. Triton made it. Clear, pure and unstinting. His voice at those moments would be a channel cut from heaven to earth right through the petrified morass of all our lives, releasing a blessing like water springing from a river-head, from a god's head. It was bliss. My coming of age.

'Your cook? He makes a lovely cake,' she said, endearing herself to me for the rest of my life.

After tea she said she had to go. I went to get a taxi for her. She stayed with him alone in the house while I went up to the main road. It didn't take long. A black tortoise of a taxi with a butter-coloured top came along, and I rode in it like a prince back to the house. The driver croaked the old horn warning them of our approach. We rolled in right up to the porch. I got out and held the door open while Mister Salgado helped her in. 'Bye-bye,' she said to him and then turned to me. 'That cake was really good.'

The taxi rolled down to the gate and veered to the left. The wheels wobbled, making the whitewalls around the rim go fuzzy. Mister Salgado watched the vehicle slowly disappear.

'The lady ate well,' I said brightly.

'Yes.'

'Sir, the love-cake was good? Really good?'

'Yes.'

'And the patties also she liked?'

'They were good.'

They were more than good. I knew, because I can feel it inside me when I get it right. It's a kind of energy that revitalises every cell in my body. Suddenly everything becomes possible and the whole world, that before seemed slowly to be coming apart at the seams, pulls together. But however confident I was about the perfection of what I produced, like everybody else, I needed praise. I needed his praise and I needed her praise. I felt stupid to need it, but I did.

1 What was Mister Salgado's state of mind before his first tea-party with Miss Nili?

- A He felt confident, as it was a role he was accustomed to performing.
- B He appeared relaxed, but inwardly, he was worrying about the event. X
- C He wished he had told his cook about the visit more in advance.
- D He became nervous about his cook's obvious lack of experience.

2 What effect did Miss Nili's large appetite have on the narrator?

- A He felt rather sorry for her because she was so hungry.
- B He suspected that she was hiding some of the food.
- C He had mixed feelings about her unconventional way of eating. X
- D He thought she should take more care when she ate.

3 Why did the narrator derive so much satisfaction when he heard the phrase 'Triton made it'?

- A It gave him a sense of purpose in his life. X

B Mister Salgado said the phrase so rarely.

C Miss Nili didn't believe the cake was home-made.

D The words improved the atmosphere at the tea-party.

4 How did the narrator feel about his taxi ride back to the house?

A He was annoyed that it was such a slow vehicle.

B He was concerned about Miss Nili during his absence.

C He appreciated being helped out of the taxi.

D He enjoyed the relative luxury of the experience. X

5 What do we learn about the narrator in the last paragraph?

A His successes in the kitchen dictated his general mood. X

B He thought it reasonable to expect praise for his cooking.

C He knew he would benefit from some help in preparing the food.

D His feelings had been hurt by Nili and Miss Salgado.

1. When and why did the dollar become the dominant currency? (3pts)
 - a. After the second World War – Investors saw America as a safe place for their investments due to an important economy and an independent Federal Reserve.
2. What reasons does the video give on why people seem to be wary of the dollar? (3pts)
 - a. Unpredictable economic policy by Donald Trump and vast and growing public debt. Also, the pressure over Federal reserve, impacting negatively the independence of the monetary policy.
3. Why does it say it's "hard" to move away from the dollar? (3pts)
 - a. Advantageous Network effect, when most people use it most other want to use it. Too much influence in the world economy. Also, in the next question we can see that there is no other currency with the strength to move away from the dollar.
4. What are the advantages and disadvantages of the alternatives suggested? (6 pts)
 - a. Euro could be a strong contender, as they have an Independent Central Bank with 21 sovereign states backing it and a huge economy. Low risk of erratic policy given by the participation of the different countries. The main disadvantage is the constant risk for crisis in one of the countries (as SUCH AS Greece), and the “safe” countries, as SUCH AS Germany, are a small part of Eurozone.

- b. China – Second economy in the world – Authoritarian Government and control of capital movement, not motivating investors.
- c. Digital currencies. But are highly volatile or linked to a dollar. A lot of participants in the environment and none of them is being taken as a “safe” currency.

Writing (20/20)

Write a response to Karl Fendz. Refer to his email. Express interest in the Autotravel package and request a demonstration. End politely by saying that you look forward to further contact.

Dear Karl Fendz,

Thank you for sharing the information about the Autotravel packages.

After reviewing the material, I think that it would be a great fit for my company. In order to continue with the purchasing process, I would like to request a demonstration so we can evaluate the full capabilities of the package before making a final decision.

Please let me know if that would be possible and if you require any further information,

I look forward to your reply.

Best regards,

Claudia Hanson
